

Tracking Down Research Literature

Are you not quite sure how to best get a hold of research literature? In this workshop, you will learn:

- How to prepare for your research project
- Which platforms to consider using for your research
- How to come up with search terms and document your progress
- How to make use of Boolean operators, truncations and other ways to effectively use search engines

The course includes theoretical input and practical exercises.

Please note:

This workshop cannot be credited as qualification measures at the Department of Mechanical Engineering. However, you are welcome to participate.

Trainer: Andreas Weitzel