Intercultural Training China

Do you work together with colleagues from China or are you simply interested in this foreign culture?

In this interactive workshop we want to create a basis for more effective communication in intercultural settings with a focus on Chinese culture.

Based on her recent experiences of living and working in China at the Polytechnic University in Xian, Gertrud Goudswaard – a trainer and expert for intercultural communication - would like to share her experiences with you and try to solve some possible misunderstandings and problems in a Chinese working environment. In a combination of theory and practice, you will develop a thorough understanding of this very interesting culture and find ways to improve communication and collaboration with Chinese colleagues. The interactive character of the workshop gives you the opportunity to get individual advice on your personal questions about cultural differences.

This course will be held in English.
