Meeting new friends from various countries was one of the most precious experiences for me.

My home country Japan is not a diverse country, so I got to learn different religions and cultures and learned to appreciate everyone in the way each of them should have been respected.

Also, all the teachers were nice and kind. I was very nervous since it was my first time to live in a place where people do not speak my native language; however, thanks to them, I was able to learn English without feeling scared or embarrassed when I made mistakes.
