FEMentoring

Are you a female PhD Student, a female Postdoc or a female Assistant Professor (Juniorprofessorin) at TU Braunschweig wishing to further your scientific career? Are you contemplating which steps you should plan next or facing the challenge of managing your own project and assuming leadership responsibilities? Or wondering what your “Plan B” should be?

Apply for the FEMentoring program

The objective of the program is to support you in your scientific career and prepare you for the academic selection process. The core of the program is one-to-one mentoring: Experienced professors and heads of scientific institutions accompany you in an advisory capacity as mentor for one year. Regular meetings provide you with a confidential atmosphere to discuss various topics concerning your own career path. You benefit from your mentor’s wealth of experience and you can establish career-relevant contacts. During the framework events and network meetings, you have the possibility to exchange information with other scientists and develop your own networks.

Qualification

The mentoring program also provides you a high-quality qualification program which supports you on your career path. The workshops are aligned to the situation of the participants and address the following topics, for example:

- Appointment procedures
- (Salary) negotiations
- Procurement of third party funds
- Networks
